How to certify your documents

Take both the ORIGINAL AND A PHOTOCOPY of each document you are providing for identification, to a person listed on the next page who is authorised to certify identification documents, and ask them to certify your documents. Do not send us your original identification documents.

If you are using a driver's licence from section A, you will need to copy BOTH sides of the licence.

The authorised person needs to compare the photocopy to the original and then certify the photocopy is a true and correct copy of the original by including the following details on the photocopy:

- stamp/write 'This is a true and correct copy of the original'
- include the authorised person's name

- their qualification (such as police officer). Also include their length of job service if they are an Australia Post or Banking or financial services employee
- their business, residential or postal address and phone number
- their signature and the date it was signed.

You then must send us the copy that has been certified. We will not accept a photocopy of the certified copy.
